SENATE RESOLUTION NO. 60

1 A RESOLUTION WELCOMING THE NIGERIAN-EDO STATE DELEGATION
2 PARTICIPATING IN THE LEGISLATIVE ORIENTATION AND DEMOCRACY
3 STRENGTHENING PROGRAM AND EXTENDING THE BEST WISHES OF THE SENATE.

4 WHEREAS, we in the Senate have been honored in the final
5 weeks of the 2001 Regular Session by the presence of a 6 distinguished delegation of legislators and public officials from 7 the State of Edo, Nigeria, who are participating in a MCID/United 8 States State Department sponsored legislative strengthening 9 program for Nigerian governmental leaders; and

10 WHEREAS, this program consists of a governmental study tour
11 of representative operations in the United States, including the 12 Mississippi Legislature; and

13 WHEREAS, EDO State was created in 1991 out of the former 14 Bendel State. Edo State is bounded in the south by Delta State, 15 in the west by Ondo State, in the north by Kogi State and in the 16 east by Kogi and Anambra States. It occupies a land area of about 17 17,802 square kilometers. From the 1991 census the state has a 18 population of 2,159,848. The original request for the creation of 19 Edo State was presented to the National Assembly in Lagos on July 20 16, 1981, by a delegation headed by the Oba of Benin, Omo n'Oba
21 Erediauwa. A steering committee had earlier been set up to work 22 out proposals for the state's creation. Bendel State was one of 23 the oldest political entities in Nigeria, having started out life 24 as the Midwest Region created by referendum August 9, 1963, and 25 excised from the then-Western Region, it then became known as 26 Midwest State, and then as Bendel State (a contraction of the 27 phrase BENin DELta). As time went on, the "federal character"

28 provision for the sharing of federal revenue amongst the states in 29 the Federation was hampering the growth and development of the 30 state. Although the demand for the creation of the state did not 31 come to fruition in the Second Republic, this demand led the 32 Babangida regime to split the then Bendel State into two parts -- 33 one which had an Edo-speaking majority (Edo State), and the other 34 which had a more heterogeneous mix of ethnic groups (Delta State).
35 With the creation of Edo State, the dream of the Edo-speaking
36 peoples and other groups in the territory for a separate identity 37 and entity was finally fulfilled; and

38 WHEREAS, Edo State is one of the more homogenous states in 39 Nigeria. The cultural and linguistic affinities that exist among 40 the various groups in the state points to this fact. A lot of the 41 communities in the state trace their roots to the ancient kingdom 42 of Benin. Customs, burial rites, diet and traditional modes of 43 dress tend to be similar throughout the state. The political 44 pattern and behavior were based on a system under which both 45 monarchial and republican ideas flourished in an integrated 46 manner. The monarchial (or chieftaincy) system revolved largely 47 on primogeniture, while the republican element was reflected in 48 the free selection by villages and communities of elders; and

49 WHEREAS, the Edo State list of participants is as follows:
