7 perspective; and

8 WHEREAS, this new era of global exchange has created a 9 marketplace of ideas in which citizens of the world from distinct 10 social, cultural, religious and linguistic backgrounds cooperate 11 and compete on a daily basis; and

19 studying in the state for the 2002-2003 academic year, and these 20 foreign students and their families contributed an estimated $44 21 million to the Mississippi economy in 2002-2003, in addition to 22 shedding light on the existence of tremendous growth 23 opportunities; and

30 WHEREAS, the United States' national security and economic 31 competitiveness depend significantly on the country's ability to
