SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 549

1 A CONCURRENT RESOLUTION COMMEMORATING THE 150TH ANNIVERSARY
2 OF THE FOUNDING OF THE CARTHAGINIAN NEWSPAPER (1872-2022) IN 3 CARTHAGE, MISSISSIPPI, AND RECOGNIZING ITS CONTRIBUTIONS TO THE 4 COMMUNITY AND TO THE STATE OF MISSISSIPPI.

5 WHEREAS, we join the citizens of Carthage, Mississippi, in 6 commemorating the 150th Anniversary of the founding of The 7 Carthaginian Newspaper and recognizing the civic contributions of 8 this leading corporate citizen in our state; and

9 WHEREAS, founded in 1872, The Carthaginian printed its first 10 edition in March of that year with L.M. Garrett as 11 Editor-Publisher. He continued in that role, turning what started 12 as a weekly publication, with as few as four pages, into a 13 thriving business and community leader. During his tenure, his 14 daughter, Singleton Garrett, became Editor, the first woman editor
15 of the newspaper and for Leake County, and among the first in 16 Mississippi; and

17 WHEREAS, in 1908, the reins of the newspaper were turned over 18 to Marshall McNeil (Big Mac) Keith, who led the business until 19 1948, establishing a Keith family dynasty with the newspaper that

20 lasted some 105 years. Big Mack relinquished the editor-publisher 21 post to George Huddleston Keith, and he served until 1994, when 22 his son, John Huddleston Keith assumed the position. George Keith 23 was an active leader in the community, steadying the helm through 24 some of the most turbulent times in the state and nation. He also 25 expanded the reach of the company, partnering with W.C. Shoemaker
26 in buying The Star-Herald in Kosciusko, Mississippi, and turning 27 it into one of the best weeklies in the south and one of the 28 largest broadsheet printing operation in the Southeast, along with 29 others, such as S. Gale Denley, Jack and Jean Coppenbarger, and 30 Sid Salter in newspapers in Forest, Mendenhall and Pontotoc.
31 George Keith served as President of the Mississippi Press
32 Associations and as a board member; and

33 WHEREAS, after George Keith, Mildred Dearman handled the 34 day-to-day leadership of the Carthage newspaper, until 1994, when 35 John H. Keith assumed command. Mildred Dearman was the second 36 woman to edit the Leake County newspaper and before her death she 37 received local, state and national honors. Starting in 1960, her 38 entire career was spent with the The Carthaginian, working in 39 every aspect of the newspaper, and at the same time contributing 40 in all ways to her community. She was President of the 41 Mississippi Press Women (MPW) and served on the Board of Directors
42 of the Mississippi Press Association (MPA) for two terms, and as 43 Vice President. Mildred won every award offered in MPW
44 competition and numerous MPA honors and more than 100 State and

45 National Journalism Awards and for years headed up the MPA Better 46 Newspaper Contests. She was chosen Mississippi Medalist at the 47 University of Southern Mississippi in 1973 and in 1974 was named
48 the Mississippi Press Women's Woman of Achievement. Mildred 49 served two terms, 1964-1965 and 1981-1982, as President of the 50 Leake County Chamber of Commerce and was named Leake County Woman 51 of the Year in 1982. She led efforts to establish an Avenue of 52 American Flags in 1964, then helped revive the display in the 53 1990s. Her efforts on behalf of the Carthage Library were key in 54 funding expansions and improvements. In April, 2005, Dearman was 55 honored by the Old Robinson Road Chapter of the Daughters of the 56 American Revolution with the Woman in American History Award, the 57 only recipient in Mississippi that year. She was the first 58 nominee named by the Old Robinson Road Chapter. A member of 59 Rotary, she was a former member and President of the Carthage PTA
60 and the 20th Century Club. Mildred was a member of Carthage
61 United Methodist Church; and

62 WHEREAS, John Keith positioned The Carthaginian for 63 increasing reliance upon and demand for electronic technology. He 64 set the newspaper up with its first website, its first email and 65 social media capabilities, and at one point The Carthaginian was 66 likely the only newspaper with capabilities to produce its own 67 page negatives, the exceptions being those newspapers which 68 operated their own presses. He was an active member of the Rotary
69 Club, serving on the board and as President. When downtown

70 Carthage began pushing beautification of the square, he led with a 71 complete face lift for the building front at The Carthaginian, and 72 he was instrumental in efforts to expand McMillan Park on Highway 73 16E. He was President of the Leake Academy PTO, plus served on 74 the boards for Leake Academy, the Chamber and for the Mississippi
75 Press Association and Mississippi Press Service; and

76 WHEREAS, in 1994, John Keith sold the newspaper to long-time
77 employee and Editor Waid Prather, a Jackson native whose career
78 had carried him to Kosciusko, Brandon, Canton, Columbia, Amory and 79 Winona in Mississippi, plus two years as Editor and Publisher of 80 the Marlin Democrat in Marlin, Texas; and

81 WHEREAS, throughout its career, The Carthaginian has won 82 recognition, receiving honors in virtually every category of 83 statewide competition in the Mississippi Press Association. Among 84 those honors are numerous general Excellence Awards, plus three 85 Freedom of Information Awards, including two won in competition
86 against all other newspapers in Mississippi, weekly and daily. In 87 May of 2005, Major General Bill Lutz, Assistant Major General,
88 Commander Mississippi Air National Guard, issued a commendation
89 for The Carthaginian for its support of the guard. The 90 commendation recognized an effort to cover guard activities, 91 including implanting Prather with the guard members as they 92 trained in the Mojave Desert prior to deployment to the Middle 93 East in the wake of 9-11, the only Mississippi newspaper to pursue 94 that assignment. A few years later, the newspaper repeated the

95 feat, sending Prather to Fort Hood in Texas, as they prepared for 96 another deployment in the Middle East; and

97 WHEREAS, during Waid Prather's time at the helm, the 98 newspaper led the charge in seeking reopening of the Walnut Grove
99 Correctional Facility, after the Mississippi Department of 100 Corrections (MDOC) canceled a private operator's contract, closing
101 the prison. His criticism of the MDOC and push for information 102 that led to the decision to close the facility were the 103 centerpiece of the paper's third Freedom of Information Award.
104 Prather has served as Director of the Carthage Rotary Club,
105 Director of the Chamber of Commerce, and is a Deacon at Trinity 106 Baptist Church; and

107 WHEREAS, established in 1834, the City of Carthage has been a 108 leading, progressive agricultural community in Central 109 Mississippi, which throughout its history has been supported by 110 the leadership of its most public-spirited corporate citizen, The 111 Carthaginian, whose civic energy is a wonderful example of 112 excellent journalism in the State of Mississippi:

113 NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE SENATE OF THE STATE OF 114 MISSISSIPPI, THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES CONCURRING THEREIN, That 115 we do hereby commemorate the 150th Anniversary of the founding of 116 The Carthaginian Newspaper (1872-2022) in Carthage, Mississippi,
117 and recognize its contributions to the community and to the State
118 of Mississippi, and extend our best wishes to the staff of this 119 leading newspaper on this auspicious occasion.

120 BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That this resolution be presented to 121 Waid Prather and the staff of The Carthaginian, forwarded to the 122 Mayor and Board of Aldermen of the City of Carthage and made
123 available to the Capitol Press Corps.
