1 A RESOLUTION HONORING THE LIFE AND LEGACY OF MR. NORMAN
2 GOETZMANN STEVENS, JR., AND EXPRESSING DEEPEST SYMPATHY TO HIS 3 FAMILY AND FRIENDS UPON HIS PASSING.

4 WHEREAS, it is written in Ecclesiastes 3:1 that "To 5 everything there is a season, and a time for every purpose under 6 the Heaven," and as such, on April 24, 2022, the immaculate author 7 and finisher of our soul's destiny summoned the mortal presence of 8 dearly beloved, Mr. Norman Goetzmann Stevens, Jr., of Mount Olive, 9 Mississippi, to eternal rest, rendering great sorrow and loss to 10 his family, friends and community; and

11 WHEREAS, born on June 11, 1931, in Picayune, Mississippi, to 12 Mr. Norman Goetzmann Stevens, Sr., and Mrs. Fern Anderson Stevens, 13 loving parents who laid a fine foundation for a remarkable life,
14 Mr. Goetzmann grew up in Picayune and spoke fondly of his days
15 there as a child, including riding with the engineer in the Crosby
16 steam engine as it carried logs between the mill and the mill
17 pond, untold hours at the YMCA, where he was when news of Pearl 18 Harbor came, and fishing on the Hobolochitto with his dad; and

19           WHEREAS, Mr. Goetzmann became a gifted athlete at Picayune
20 High School in multiple sports, leading the football team to a
21 state championship in 1948, and because of his outstanding 22 athleticism, he was a highly recruited quarterback, and like his 23 father before him, who was Louisiana State University's last four 24 sport letterman, he became a Bengal Tiger, one of the few 25 father-son combos in LSU football history, and while there, he 26 played the seasons of 1950 through 1953, and was named the MVP his 27 senior season; and

28           WHEREAS, while at LSU, Mr. Goetzmann met his beloved future
29 bride, Ms. Martha Sue "Mossy" Blain, a cheerleader who rode atop 30 the tiger cage into Tiger Stadium for each home game, and they 31 married December 20, 1952; and

32           WHEREAS, upon graduation, Mr. Goetzmann took a position with 33 a Picayune bank, but soon received a draft notice, and the United 34 States Air Force assigned him to Keesler Air Force Base, where the 35 base commander wanted him to coach and play for the base football 36 team, and while there, he was promoted to First Lieutenant and was 37 ultimately, as a 24-year-old, in command of over 600 men training 38 as radar operators; and

39           WHEREAS, after his time in the Air Force, Mr. Goetzmann 40 joined his father-in-law's company, Blain Construction Company of 41 Mount Olive, Mississippi, and helped build an outstanding company 42 that endured well into a third generation; and

43           WHEREAS, Mr. Goetzmann had a decades long career in the 44 highway construction and materials business and was a part of 45 building many of the major highways and interstates across 46 Mississippi and bordering states; and

47           WHEREAS, Mr. Goetzmann was well respected by his peers, known 48 for his honest dealings and forward-thinking practices, and served 49 in leadership positions on many industry boards on a state and 50 national basis, as well as numerous local civic and philanthropic 51 boards; and

52           WHEREAS, in one of the defining moments of his life, as a 53 young father of three children, Mr. Goetzmann suddenly lost his 54 beloved Martha Sue in 1965, but by the grace of God, he weathered
55 this heartache, and married the second love of his life, Ms.
56 Elizabeth "Beth" Wagner, on January 11, 1969, thereby becoming 57 father to two more beloved children, and there has never been a 58 more complete melding of two families into one; and

59           WHEREAS, in a second defining moment, Beth was diagnosed with 60 advanced ovarian cancer in August 2000, and Mr. Goetzmann
61 immediately retired from his work and devoted the next ten years
62 to walking side by side with her through a long and arduous 63 chemotherapy journey, and they were married for 42 years, and he 64 loved her fiercely till the end; and

65           WHEREAS, dedicated to his faith, Mr. Goetzmann was a devout
66 follower of Jesus, and for decades, he daily rose before the sun
67 to extensively study his Bible and pray, leaving behind volumes of 68 daily study notes and, more importantly, leaving an example of 69 loving and living in harmony with his fellowman; and

70 WHEREAS, Mr. Goetzmann served as presiding elder for Mount 71 Olive Presbyterian Church and dearly loved his church family and 72 pastors, and his legacy of faith is plainly revealed by the faith 73 of his children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren, and by the 74 steadfast way in which he lived his life in moments of testing; 75 and

76 WHEREAS, though he has traversed the river of life to reunite
77 with those who answered God's summons to life eternal and now
78 beckon his arrival to the celestial shores of Heaven's grandeur, 79 such as his two wonderful and loving wives, who he often said he 80 longed to join in Heaven, as he will be laid to rest between them,
81 the legacy of Mr. Goetzmann's indelible imprint upon our lives
82 will continue to refresh the hearts and fond memories of his loved

94 WHEREAS, Mr. Goetzmann will forever be loved, cherished and 95 missed by all who knew him, and since it is written in 2

97 with the Lord," his family and friends can find peace and comfort 98 during this difficult time; and

99 WHEREAS, a genuine man of exceptional character, Mr.
100 Goetzmann's outstanding legacy will continue for generations to
