HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 122

A RESOLUTION COMMENDING THE LEGACY AND SUCCESS OF ARTHUR "MR.
D" DAVIS AND THE WORLD RENOWN OLD COUNTRY STORE IN LORMAN, MISSISSIPPI, IN THEIR RESPECTIVE CAPACITIES AS MISSISSIPPI AMBASSADORS.

5 WHEREAS, in 1996, at the age of 50, retired and living 6 comfortably with his wife, Margie, in his home state of Florida, 7 Mr. Arthur Davis drove to Lorman, Mississippi, to deliver a car to 8 his sons, Arthur Jr., and Derrick, who were attending Alcorn State 9 University on full academic scholarship, and upon experiencing the 10 serendipitous charm of the quaint college town, made the decision 11 to make it his forever home; and

12 WHEREAS, "Mr. D," as he is affectionately called, describes 13 his unexpected, yet unyielding attachment to the state as being 14 equivalent to getting "Mississippi mud in my shoes and it stuck," a toehold that has rewarded him time and time again, as a one of 15 the state's most prominent ambassadors of hospitality; and 16 17 WHEREAS, admittedly, Davis was apprehensive about Mississippi, despite sending his scholar sons to attend school 18 here, but those misconceptions were quickly dispelled by the charm 19

20 and beauty of the quaint southwestern community along the Highway 21 61 corridor, which brought with it, Mr. D's irrefutable presence 22 as a mainstay upon his purchase of the "Old Country Store"; and 23 WHEREAS, a two-story building constructed circa 1875, 24 consisting of 5,000 square feet on each level, the "Old Country 25 Store" has fulfilled a lot of purpose during its storied history prior to Davis' establishing it as a restaurant that proffers a 26 27 proper presentation of Southern cuisine, including serving as a 28 post office, Western Union office, bus depot, train station, 29 telephone office, craft mall, ballroom, Louisiana-style restaurant 30 and a bank; and

31 WHEREAS, since its acquisition by the "Singing Chef," another 32 affectionate moniker of endearment by which Mr. D is referenced, the "Old Country Store" has been profiled by the Food Network's 33 culinary virtuoso, Alton Brown, in a 2011 feature in which he 34 35 hailed the restaurateur's fried chicken as "the best I've ever had 36 in my life," replete with other buffet offering of mustard greens, collard greens, candied yams, sweet potatoes, macaroni and cheese, 37 38 pork chops, smoked ribs, potato salad, green salad, cornbread, 39 biscuits and three fruit cobblers (apple, peach and blackberry); 40 and

41 WHEREAS, full of faith, which he is big on acknowledging the 42 divine intervention of in directing his path to Mississippi, 43 complete with his maternal grandmother's, Elnora Adkins, recipes 44 and wisdom for navigating life, Mr. D has transformed the business

45 he initially started as a fast-food joint more than two decades 46 ago, frying his world-famous chicken in a skillet, while supplementing his retirement income as a car salesman in 47 Vicksburg, into a dining experience of a lifetime, which has 48 49 titillated the tastebuds of passersby and travelers the world 50 over, from the domestic reaches of Maine, Arizona, Texas and Nevada to the international soils of Germany, China, England, 51 52 Sweden and Australia; and

53 WHEREAS, self-described as the unofficial, "welcome center for Windsor Ruins," Mr. D's "Old Country Store" has served up more 54 than just meals in its chronology, including serving as a safe 55 56 haven in 2005 for some 28 hurricane evacuees seeking refuge after Katrina ravaged the Gulf Coast, as well as the collegiate dive for 57 Thursday night parties for some 200 Alcorn students, whose 58 59 frequent get togethers kept the business afloat during leaner 60 times; and

61 WHEREAS, Mr. D's inviting personality, seasoned perfectly with the gift of gab, has served as the secret recipe to his 62 63 success, as he meets no strangers, occasionally treating customers 64 to a spontaneous and soulful bluesy tune, which has become 65 synonymous with the "Old Country Store" dining experience; and 66 WHEREAS, it is the policy of the House of Representatives to commend the excellence of extraordinary individuals of Mr. Davis' 67 68 caliber, whose choice to make Mississippi home and invest in its
